The diagram illustrates a software architecture with several components. On the left, a vertical stack of five blue rectangular boxes contains the labels 'controller', 'exception', 'model', 'service', and 'security' from top to bottom. To the right of this stack is a single blue rectangular box labeled 'repository'. A dashed line with an open arrowhead points from the 'model' box to the 'repository' box. The word 'dependency' is written in the middle of this dashed line.
